Building Community.

"Dude Chilling Park is very cool and I love how there are so many nice parks around the area. The people who come to our restaurant are very laidback and it's great to serve familiar faces."

A modern monochromatic palette is applied across layered details to achieve an architectural rhythm. As natural light changes throughout the day and across the seasons, so too does your interpretation of the façade. A confident personality radiates from the prominent corner position.

Midtown Central is designed for elevated liveability with innovative details, like aluminum portals framing views and extensive window glazing to enhance your everyday life. The creative use of glass leads to a sense of lightness. Spend more time relaxing or entertaining outdoors on your balcony or expansive rooftop deck, while enjoying views of the mountains and city year-round. On the ground floor, two commercial tenants will add convenience to your life and infuse more character into the community.

This collection of thirty-five homes, creatively designed by Studio B Architects, complement the dynamic community.
